

SILENCE, POLITICS, AND NOT-KNOWING

Exploring the Relationship between Contemplation and Activism

A Contemplative Retreat

How do we engage the needs and brokenness of this world from a contemplative perspective? How do contemplative Christian spirituality and an active faith that is seeking to bring healing and justice to the world go together? Do they go together? What does contemplative spirituality have to offer the deep political divisions of our times? What is the relationship between contemplation and action? In this half-day contemplative retreat we will begin an exploration of these questions, seeking to understand how silence and the contemplative stance of "not-knowing" can guide us into healthy and transformative ways of engaging the world and seeking peace and justice.

This retreat is designed for those who are looking for a safe space to explore deeper questions about life and faith, who want to learn about contemplation and action as a helpful paradigm for social engagement, and who desire an opportunity for quiet prayer, reflection and rest. Come join this exploration if you are feeling a tug toward something deeper or a longing for something more in your current faith journey.
